Every day,
your heart beats 100,000 times, sending 2,000 gallons of blood surging through your body.
